WEDNESDAY, November 9, 1748.

HAGUE, Auguſt 27, N. S.

THE burghers of Amſterdam do not ſeem to be at all ſatisfied with the anſwer the regency thought proper to return laſt week to their petition; and every thing is once more in ſuch a ſituation in that town, as gives room to fear that ſtill greater diſorders are likely to enſue than have yet been ſeen there. The prince of Orange's deputation to Frieſland is to ſet out tomorrow or next day for that province: M. Gavearts is appointed one of the deputies inſtead of M. C. Bentick, who is to depart for Hanover ſometime this week. The ſolemn deputation from the ſtate of Frieſland delivered, a few days ago to the prince of Orange, the diploma of the hereditary ſucceſſion in the male and female line of his highneſs's iſſue. And yeſterday the prince received an expreſs from Groeningen, with advices that the ſtates of that province have taken the reſolution to give him the diſpoſal of all their great civil employments; a power they hitherto reſerved to themſelves. The inhabitants of the county of Drenthe, animated by the example of their neighbours of Groeningen and Frieſland, have begun to commit ſeveral diſorders; and we hear that every thing there is in the utmoſt confuſion.

Peterſburg, Auguſt 6. The language of the court is of late more pacific than ever; but notwithſtanding this, the garriſons are to be augmented on the frontiers of Finland, new magazines are to be raiſed, and a large train of artillery is to be ſent thither. Beſides all this, ſeveral regiments have orders to march from the interior provinces of the empire into Livonia, where they are to encamp on the frontiers of Courland; that if this government has any enemies, and thoſe enemies intend to attempt any thing, they may not find us unprovided.

Stockholm, Auguſt 8. As all our advices from Finland leave no doubt concerning the diſpoſitions making by Ruſſia to aſſemble a conſiderable force in that country; the court has likewiſe marched thither ſeveral regiments, ordered the militia of the province to be conſtantly exerciſed, and directed our governor-general to make the regular troops canton on the frontiers.

Liege, Auguſt 13. Several ovens have been lately built in the duchy of Limbourg for the uſe of the French troops quarter'd there; whence it is judged that they will not evacuate that country ſo ſoon as was expected.

Stockholm, Auguſt 15. Our military eſtabliſhment is compleatly fixed, by the ſettlement of neceſſary funds for keeping up eighty thouſand foot, and thirty-five thouſand horſe, in time of peace; a conſiderable corps of light arm'd Finlanders will be quickly raiſed, who it is thought will be as ſerviceable to us as the Coſſacks in the Ruſſian army. The foundations of a new fort, which is to be called Ulrickberg, have been laid with great ceremony on the mountain of Caſa, to cover the fortreſs of Helſingfors; and we are in ſo great a hurry to fill our magazines in Finland, that public notice has been given, of ſuffering ſhips laden with corn to paſs thither, without being ſubject to the ceremony of ſearching.

LONDON.

Auguſt 9. They write from Aix la Chapelle, that the count de Kaunitz, the Imperial plenipotentiary, having repreſented in his laſt declaration, that the court of Peterſburg was deſirous of being included in the general pacification, he now propoſes it ſhould be propoſed in the definitive treaty as follows: That in order to ſtill any ſeeds of diſcord that might remain on the ſcore of the auxiliary troops furniſhed, it is agreed that her ſacred imperial majeſty of all the Ruſſias ſhall be included in the general peace; and that the ſame friendſhip which has ſubſiſted between her ſaid imperial majeſty of all the Ruſſias and his moſt Chriſtian majeſty, ought, and ſhall always ſubſiſt in the ſame manner, as if the abovemaid troops had never been furniſhed.

Auguſt 13. By letters from Venice it would ſeem, that that republic and the court of Vienna are on the point of coming to a rupture. The country people in the diſtrict of Vicenza, 'tis ſaid, have affronted the empreſs queen by ſome very indecent ſpeeches, which being come to her ears, ſhe inſiſts upon a ſignal ſatisfaction for the ſame; and as a neceſſary ſtep towards obtaining it, the ſeveral German and Hungarian regiments, which were ordered to return home from Italy, have been countermanded, and double pay promiſed to ſuch of the Croats and Pandours whoſe term of ſerving in the field is expired, in order to engage them to ſtay and occupy the poſts bordering on the Venetian territories; upon which 6000 of them are come to Nalarſi, whither the Auſtrians have already ſent 30 pieces of cannon drawn out of the caſtle of Roveredo; and they aſſure us, that the Imperial general will aſſemble a conſiderable body of troops towards the diſtricht of Vicenza. On the other hand, all the Venetian cavalry that was quarter'd at Verona, with the infantry that lay at Breſcia, are advanced into the ſaid diſtrict; and orders iſſued for an augmentation of 20 men per troop and company in the republic's forces: The levies are even begun in diverſe places, and the ſenate are buying up all ſorts of arms and ammunition in the neighbouring ſtates.

Auguſt 17. By private letters from different parts of France, we hear that they are equipping their marine force in the ports of that kingdom, with the moſt ſurprizing diligence and alacrity, to protect their commerce, they ſay, which is ſomewhat unaccountable in the preſent juncture. But to put the moſt favourable conſtruction on the matter, it is too eaſy to diſcern, that the French miniſtry have at leaſt in view, before the preſent is determined, the proſpect of preparing for and beginning a freſh war with advantage.

Auguſt 19. Private letters from the Hague mention, that the ſame precaution has been taken in Zealand, as in the Northern provinces, to bridle the populace; troops have been marched towards Middleburg, and placed in detachments round that city, in ſuch a manner that they may ſupport each other on the leaſt notice.

Auguſt 22. In the province of Frize all is in the utmoſt confuſion. Of the 36 members of the regency at Lewarden, the new legiſlators, that is the populace, have left but five in office; and not content with barely depoſing, demand a ſtrict account from the reſt. But the final iſſue of the diſcovery being an empty treaſury, and a vaſt load of debt upon the province, the people have named commiſſioners to wait on the prince ſtadtholder, with a remonſtrance compoſed in part of complaints as to the conduct of the old rulers, and partly an apology for their own.

Letters from Stockholm adviſe, that the ſhips lately built at Carelſcroon are ſailed for the North ſea, freighted with various ſorts of goods; and that it is taken for granted they are bound to the ports of France, where after landing their cargoes they will remain, and be converted into men of war.

Auguſt 23. They write from Berlin, that it is decided no reform ſhall be made in the Pruſſian troops, until all the articles of the general treaty of peace be duly executed; and eſpecially 'til his Pruſſian majeſty ſhall have full ſatisfaction in regard to the guaranty ſtipulated in the treaty of Dreſden.

The ſame letters ſay, that the burghers of Amſterdam are like to carry their point againſt the regency, which is chiefly owing to ſeveral ſenſible and moderate pieces that have been publiſhed in behalf of the burghers, in which it is plainly proved that the declenſion of the affairs of the republic, in all reſpects, have been entirely owing to the preferring the intereſt of a certain party to thoſe of the ſtate in general.

Extract of a Letter from Milan, July 19.

" The report is general in all countries, that there are a great many articles ſtill to ſettle betwixt the empreſs queen and the republic of Genoa; and 'tis added, that thoſe articles are the ſubject of the negotiation with which general Paravicini is at preſent charged. If this report does not meet with credit in the countries beyond the Alps, 'tis ſo much believed here, that the

the very articles themſelves, upon which the reconciliation is to be built, are confidently ſaid to be as follow; viz.

That the republic ſhall give liberty to all the Auſtrian priſoners, and pay to the army 50,000 livres, by way of Douceur; That they ſhall give 200,000 more, as an indemnification for the loſs which the officers ſuſtained in the tragic ſcene of December, 1746: That ſhe ſhall pay 20,000 crowns for the remainder of the ſecond payment of contributions agreed to with general Botta: That ſhe ſhall promiſe to make the third payment of contributions, which amounts to one million of Genouins: And, That finally the republic ſhall ſend ſix ſenators to Vienna, to make ample confeſſion of her miſconduct in the late proceedings."

Extract of a Letter from Riga, July 29.

"A ſtorm ſeems to be gathering in the North, which may perhaps once more embroil the affairs in Europe, and diſturb the tranquility which the compromiſing of the differences in the ſouthern parts ſeem to ſecure on a laſting foundation. Troops are filing off towards the frontiers of Finland, and the magazines are filling with a diligence that beſpeaks us on the eve of war with Sweden, but upon what account, and from what motive, nobody can tell. 'Tis ſuppoſed they are ſpirited up by the common diſturber of Europe, to revenge his quarrel with our auguſt princeſs; if ſo, they may poſſibly verify the ſtory of the Cat's Paw, and ſink their credit and power beyond a poſſibility of redemption."

Extract of a Letter from Paris, Auguſt 16, N. S.

"Every day gives new birth to ſome freſh reports concerning the congreſs at Aix la Chapelle, and by laying them all together, it is generally believed that this congreſs will laſt longer than was imagined ſome time ago; tho' at the ſame time, we are made to believe that the peace will be ſpeedily publiſhed, and therefore it ſhould ſeem that the congreſs is to ſit afterwards, as one may phraſe it, only to keep the Peace. Our new fleet from Sweden is not expected in our ports 'til towards the end of October."

Extract of a Letter from the Hague, Auguſt 9.

"Letters which have been received here from Germany and the North adviſe, that count de Schulemberg Oynhauſen, general and grand maſter of the artillery in the ſervice of the emperor, and the major-general his brother, are gone from Vienna, traverſing the empire with all diligence, and ſteering their courſe to Hanover, in order to execute a commiſſion there of the laſt importance with his Britannic majeſty: And certain perſons at Aix, whoſe characters make one ſuppoſe them to be well inform'd in affairs, aſſure us, that there is a powerful alliance on the carpet, and that count de Schulemberg is charged with a plan, which the court of Ruſſia has lately ſent to Vienna, together with the reſult of a grand council held in the preſence of the emperor, concerning the good diſpoſition which the empreſs of Ruſſia ſhews, to enter into meaſures ſo indiſpenſibly neceſſary for the repoſe of the empire, and for eſtabliſhing a ballance of power in Europe."

BOSTON.

September 26. Laſt Thurſday 54 cheſts, each containing 3000 mill'd dollars, were landed on the Long Wharff, taken from on board the rich Spaniſh prize brought in here by capt. Freeman; which being put into four carts, each having a flag, and guarded by ſeamen, one with 18 cheſts was carried to the captain's, and the other three to the owners, with 36 cheſts.

WILLIAMSBURG.

October 27. We hear from Cape Fear, that they had been lately annoyed there by two Spaniſh privateers, and received conſiderable damage: The moſt particular account we have yet received of this invaſion is as follows. That ſome time laſt month, two Spaniſh privateers appeared off the town of Brunſwick, on that river; and having fired ſome ſhot into the town, forced the inhabitants to leave the place: Upon which the Spaniards landed, and continued there for three days; during which time they plunderd it of every thing valuable, which they conveyed on board their veſſels: That on the fourth day the inhabitants, having armed themſelves, came upon them, and took poſſeſſion again of the town; which one of the privateers ſeeing, fired on ſhore, and by ſome accident blew up. The other immediately ſlipp'd her cable, and went out.——'Tis computed that 300 Spaniards loſt their lives in this affair; and that the inhabitants are very great ſufferers, having loſt moſt of their merchandize, and whatever elſe could conveniently be carried off.

Notwithſtanding we thought ourſelves almoſt ſure of a peace, yet the following account muſt ſurprize us, which we have from capt. Haſty, who was a paſſenger. The ſhip Endeavour, capt. John Simpſon, from Glaſgow, with a valuable cargo of bale goods, was taken off our capes on the 18th inſtant, in Lat. 37, 50, by a Spaniſh privateer from St. Auguſtine, John Ferdinando commander, with 12 carriage and 12 ſwivel guns, and 150 men. The captain would hear nothing of a ceſſation of arms; but ſaid that he had a commiſſion, ſign'd but 15 days before, by the governor of St. Auguſtine; and that ſeven privateers, beſides himſelf, were then on a cruize from that place. This privateer had alſo taken a ſhip from Jamaica for London, but juſt before.

On Tueſday laſt arrived in Hampton-road his majeſty's ſloop Swan, capt. John Ruſſel, with diſpatches from the government at home, to the governors on this continent; containing the acceſſion of the king of Spain, and the republic of Genoa, to the preliminaries, which were ſigned by their plenipotentiaries on the 28th of June, N. S. in conſequence of which hoſtilities are to ceaſe, as well by ſea as land, according to the terms and periods agreed upon for a ſuſpenſion of arms, in the treaty of peace ſigned at Paris the 19th day of Auguſt, N. S. 1712; that is to ſay, That all ſhips, merchandize, &c. taken in the Channel and in the North ſeas, after twelve days, to be computed from the ſigning the ſaid ſuſpenſion, ſhall be reſtored mutually: That the term ſhall be for ſix weeks for prizes made from the Channel, the Britiſh ſeas, and the North ſeas, as far as Cape St. Vincent: And in like manner of ſix weeks from and beyond that cape, as far as the Line, whether in the Ocean, or Mediterranean. Laſtly, of ſix months, beyond the Line, and in all other parts of the world without any exception, or other more particular diſtinction of time and place.

The day before capt. Ruſſel arrived, he ſpoke with the brigantine Pompey, of Philadelphia, George Davis maſter, from the bay of Honduras; who inform'd him, that on the 3d of September laſt, admiral Knowles, in the Cornwall, with five other of his majeſty's ſhips, fell in with ſix ſail of Spaniſh men of war; one of which, called the Conqueſtadore, of 64 guns, he took; another of 74 guns, called the Africa, he drove on ſhore, which was afterwards burnt.

ANNAPOLIS.

On Saturday laſt died, in Cæcil County, Mr. Joſhua Gorge, who was for many Years a faithful Repreſentative of that County, and Proſecutor in that and two other Counties: He was a Gentleman well ſkill'd in his Profeſſion, of a benevolent and friendly Diſpoſition to all, and ſtrictly juſt and true to his Clients.

Laſt Monday died, at his Plantation near this City, Mr. Richard Young, formerly Clerk of Calvert County.
